EVANGELIST SUFFERS STROKE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 19.—UP—Aimee Semple McPherson, Evangelist of Angelus Temple, was reported by associates today to have suffered blindness and to be in a critical condition.

Close upon this information came a statement from her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy that "Aimee struck me on the nose." Mrs. Kennedy said that this was the cause of her (Mrs. Kennedy's) confinement in the Brentwood sanitarium here.

Dr. Edward H. Williams, psychiatrist and neuroligist, attended Mrs. McPherson tonight and gave out a quieting statement regarding the evangelist.

No Danger

"There is no immediate danger for Mrs. McPherson," he said. "If she can be kept quiet. She has suffered a breakdown due to overwork.

"She is not blind, but here eyes are in poor shape and the utmost care must be exercised. The breakdown has contributed to eye-strain to damage her eyes."

Dr. Williams said he discounted rumors that a recent beauty operation had anything to do with Mrs. McPherson's illness.

Sight Lost

"If she has had such an operation performed," he said, "it was not done within the past month."

Meantime, Miss Emma Shaeffer, secretary to Aimee, announced that the famous evangelist had lost her sight, and others of her congregation attributed her illness to a nervous breakdown induced by overwork.

"After 22 years of unselfish unremitting evangelistic work, it is no wonder human strength cannot indefinitely endure the pres-

GIRL WORKERS HIT BY LEGION HEAD AT MEET

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 19.—UP—Married women who are not heads of families should be eliminated from industry if they are holding jobs at less than normal wages, state commander of the American Legion declared tonight in an address before delegates of the annual state convention of the Legion here.

"When millions of America's manpower left their jobs to enter the service during the war, their places were taken by women. When the war ended and these men returned they found women engaged in their old jobs at less wages.

This problem was not nearly so serious as the present day situation of more than 3,000,000, whose husbands are already working at gainful occupations, being found holding down jobs which should be given to men, and particularly ex-service men ,and also to women who are compelled to support themselves."

OLD STORIES RE-TOLD BY WITNESSES

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19—UP—With new witnesses re-telling old testimony, the Billings hearing drew near its end tonight.

Unless there are important results within the next few days from investigations being carried on by "prosecution" detectives, it was intimated at the close of today's session, every effort will be made to close the hearing this week.

The seven justices of the California supreme court have sat for nearly a month on the application for pardon for Warren K. Billings, lifer.

Testimony Heard

Today's crop of witnesses were called largely to corroborate previous testimony. In some cases, the result was successful; in others it was not.

Ralph Jones, automobile dealer of Sacramento, was called by Edwin V. McKenzie, Billings' counsel, to substantiate the testimony previously offered by W. L. Claibourne to the effect that John Crowley, an important witness at the time of the trial, lied in several particulars. This Jones failed to do.

Jones had privately told McKenzie that he himself had stood on the exact spot where the bomb went off two minutes before the explosion—a time when Crowley joined John MacDonald in the declaration that "two men with a suitcase" were standing on the spot. There were no two men with a suitcase, Jones had told MacKenzie last Thursday; but once in the courtroom, and shown a photograph of the spot, Jones corrected himself. He was not at that spot, but several feet south of it, and the men and suitcase might have been there for all he knew.

Saw Men

Also, Jones was expected to substantiate Claibourne's testimony in this regard: Crowley had testified, Claibourne said that he

2ND FELON DIES IN ORGY

SAN QUENTIN, Aug. 19.—San Quentin prison's wood alcohol orgy today claimed the life of one convict, George B. Cassel, Los Angeles robber and editor of the Walled City News, prison publication.

Charles Brown, 30, associate editor of the San Quentin Bulletin, prison magazine, was the first victim of the unfortunate party.

Other prisoners who are in a serious condition are: Jo Mackin, associate editor of the San Quentin Bulletin, and John Lawler, printer in the Bulletin office.

It is believed that the drinking bout started Saturday afternoon and ended on Sunday. The guards first learned of the affair when Brown was taken ill in his cell. Warden Holohan believes that the wood alcohol was obtained from either a cleaning fluid or shellac used in the prison machine shop.

Mackin's condition is the most serious of the group. He has become practically blind, but has, according to Dr. Leo L. Stanley, prison physician, a fair chance of recovery. Lawler is expected to recover.

Mackin is serving a fifteen year term for a robbery in Los Angeles. Lawler is serving a life sentence for the murder of William C. McCollough in a San Francisco holdup.

Two Tots Burned In House Fire

SSTOCKTON, Aug. 19.—Two babies are dead ,burned to death in their cribs ,and their two brothers are hovering on the borderline of death as the esult of a fire which early today trapped the Nick Padilla family on the second floor of their ranch home and cut off all exits before it was discovered.

The father saved his wife and one baby by throwing them out a window, and a 12 year old son played the hero by throwing a younger brother out a window and assisting still another brother to escape through a window.

The dead babies are Gilbert, six months old, and Julia, two and a half years of age. The boys burned so fatally that physicians say they probably will die, are Tony, 7 and Nick, 6.

Jesus, 12, and Jose, 10, had a narrow escape from the same fate that overtook the babies.

Jesus ,making himself a hero, rushed through flames and smoke to rescue Nick from cremation and threw him out a window. He then aided Jose to escape and leaped from the window a short time before the entire house collapsed.

The father ,first to become aware of the fire, awakened to find the entire first floor a veritable furnace. The stairs leading to the second floor had collapsed and there was no possibility of rescuing his babies from the flames.

MEET HELD AT HALL HERE

Memories of tramping feet of little more than a decade ago when the youth of this country marched off to war, were brought back vividly to the minds of Richmond residents last night when 500 members of the V. F. W. assembled here for the district convention, and paraded through the center of town.

Led by W. F. Huber of El Cerrito, as marshal and George Imbach, assistant marshal, the veterans aided by three drum corps from Astor post in Oakland, Emeryville post and Honor post of Richmond, marched through town and to the Memorial hall where the meeting was held.

Honor Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars of Richmond was host to the gathering, which was composed of delegates and members of eight other posts.

Posts represented last night were Honor Post, Astor Post, of Oakland; Hollywood Post of Alameda; Waterhouse Post of East Oakland; Emeryville Post; Berkeley Post; Martinez Post; Hayward Post, and Pittsburg Post.

Many dignitaries of the organization were present last night including H. W. Winn, department commander; Oliver Hall, junior department commander; O. T. Mahaney, department chief of staff; Charles Barmeo, deputy chief of staff; Dan Shurtel ,past department commander, and present general chairman of California Cottage at the National V. F. W. home at Eton Rapids, Mich.

Winn was the principal speaker of the evening, making an inspiring talk which was enthusiastically received by the veterans. S. S. Ripley, commander of Honor Post, presided at the meeting.

The Memorial hall was thronged with veterans, the meeting place being almost too small to hold the large number in attendance.

Mayor A. B. Hinkley made the address of welcome to the gathering.

Reports from the various posts in the district were also heard last night.

At the conclusion of the meeting, a big banquet was served in the downstairs hall of the Memorial building under the direction of a committee of Honor Post members headed by Harry Hunt.

During the meal, entertainment was provided by Tony Merlo and Charles Massa, who played several accordian and drum selections.

After dinner speeches concluded the evening.

BERKELEY, Aug. 19.—Net profits of nearly $225,000 were yielded by departmental operations of the Associated Students of the University of California during the year ending May 31, 1930, according to an auditors' report for the period made public today by W. W. Monahan, graduate manager. The audit was made by a San Francisco firm of certified public accountants.

These profits will find immediate use, Monahan said, in the retirement of a part of the association's obligation of more than $1,125,000 for the purchase and improvement of land in the area southwest of the campus, where an extensive athletic development is in progress, and for the A. S. U. C. share in the cost of the Eshelman Memorial Publications building.

Athletes as usual brought in a major share of the total profits: $241,250.24, the report shows. While other activities—the general student body, publications, the cafeteria and the stores at Berkeley and Davis—swelled the total profits to $285,282.87, losses on other activities cut the net profit to $224,558.16 for the year. These losing activities, supported because the association considers them worthwhile for other than commercial reasons, include the operation of the association's building, Stephens Union, a wide variety of miscellaneous activities, dramatics, welfare and women's activities which are chiefly athletic.

The current assets of the Association on May 31 of $676,605.52 exceeded current liabilities of $405,182.95 by $271,422.57, the report indicates. This excess places the association in a considerably improved position, the auditors point out, in relation to the previous period it represents an increase in current assets over current liabilities of $523,790.57. The improvement is largely due, the report points out, to proceeds from the new California Memorial stadium scrip issue which totaled $518,903.85 on May 31.

The total net assets of the association at the end of the year were $2,508,720.98, an increase over the previous year of $641,007.55, the statement of condition shows. The association's surplus of $1,740,127.45 shows an increase over the previous surplus of $224,955.02; this increase is for the most part accounted for by the net profit derived from the activities of the association.

Football alone of all sports shows a profit. The net profit was $396,788.67, but the sport carried five other major athletic activities—baseball, basketball, track, crew and tennis—at a total net loss of $85,139.18, and ten Circle 'C' sports at a net loss of $7,950.94. The maintenance of three athletic fields and the expenses of administration of all athletics brought a further reduction in gain of $62,448.31, bringing the new profit from all sports to $241,250.24. The stadium is, incidentally, the largest source of field expense; charges for maintenance and depreciation totaled more than $20,000.

The gross income brought in by football was $659,304.68 in 1929. Of this amount more than $182,000 in guarantees went to opponents who played in the California Memorial stadium. More than $100,000 of the gross income is accounted for by the retirement of stadium script for the "big game" of 1929. In addition to the guarantees, a wide variety of expenses necessary to the proper management and conduct of the sport further reduced the net profit to about $396,000, the report shows.

The development in the southwest area to which the association is committed includes the construction of a track and field stadium, a baseball diamond and football practice field, and a share in university tennis courts for the use of students and faculty. The ASUC share in the Publications building amount to $125,000, a like amount having been provided by the California legislature.

MAX FAVORED IN MONDAY BATTLE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19. — Max Baer, the new threat in the heavyweight division, has opened a ten-to-six favorite in the betting to beat Frankie Campbell, of this city, in their ten-round decision contest at Recreation ball park here next Monday night.

The Livermore Larruper's great victory over Meyer "K. O." Chistner, the Akron, O., iron man, recently at the Emeryville ball park, has the fans of this section believing the youngster unbeatable.

Baer and Campbell will put up a thrilling battle and, because of the exceptional punching power of the heavyweights, the fans do not look for it to go the full distance.

Manager "Ham" Lorimer is around with a broad smile, and he has a good reason for feeling chipper. He has received a wire from Matchmaker Frank Bruen of Madison Square arena in New York asking when his fighter would be available for a match in the big metropolis and asking for terms. No mention of opponents was made, however.

Lorimer states that he will await the outcome of the Campbell match and two others he has in view before doing any business with promoters outside the state.

Both Baer and Campbell are training hard for the shot next Monday night, which Promoter Ancil Hoffman believes will draw a $50,000 gate. The show is being staged under the auspices of the Monarch A. C.

GREEK THEATER TO BE SCENE OF CONCERT

BERKELEY, Aug. 19.—Gerda Henius, dramatic soprano with the La Scala Opera of Milan, Italy, will be the soloist at the Berkeley concert of the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra with Antonia Brico as conductor, Friday, September 5, at 8 o'clock in the Greek theater.

This became known today when word was received by Dean C. B. Lipman, chairman of the committee in charge of the program, that Miss Henius had sailed from Europe to make her appearance here.

Antonia Brico, University of California graduate in 1923, will lead the 83 members of the San Francisco Symphony. In a field traditionally reserved for men, Miss Brico has attained such fame, that she was recently accorded the honor of leading the Berlin Philharmonic orchestra, being the first woman to fill such a role.

Miss Brico recently appeared at the Hollywood Bowl and was greeted with a record-breaking crowd of 35,000 people. The noted conductor received her elementary schooling in the Oakland public schools, and her musical career was started under the inspiration of Paul Steindorf. After studying at the University of California with Professors Modeste Alloo and Edward Stricklen she became an assistant in the music department of the university.

After leaving California she went to New York for a year of concentrated study with Sigismond Stojowsky. From New York, Miss Brico went to Europe where she studied three years with Professor Julius Pruewer at the Berlin Hochschule the state academy for conductors. During this time she was the protege of Dr. Karl Muck, considered the greatest conductor in the world. She was coached at the Wagner festival at Bayreuth and later made her debut with the Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra.

Acorns Win In Game With Stars

OAKLAND, Aug. 19.—UP—The Oaks with a ninth inning rally that netted them two runs defeated Hollywood 3 to 2.

Lombardi's homer in the second gave the Oaks the lead, but was lost in the third when Hollywood got to Craghead for two runs. The game was a mound duel between Craghead and Turner, with Craghead having the edge.

The Oakland pitcher held the Stars to five hits, while all the Oaks could garner off Turner were seven hits.

KELLY SIGNED BY CHICAGO CUBS

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—UP—"Long George" Kelly, who helped the New York Giants win four successive National league pennants, returned to the major leagues today to aid the Chicago Cubs in their 1930 pennant drive.

Kelly was secured by the Cubs in a deal with the Minneapolis Millers American Association team, the Cubs sending Malcolm Moss, left handed rookie pitcher, to the Millers on optional recall for Kelly and one other player to be named later.

Manager McCarthy opened negotiations to secure Kelly after Captain Charlie Grimm, Cubs first baseman, was injured Saturday. With Grimm out of action for at least two weeks and substitute first baseman Tolson on the bench with a lame leg, McCarthy was forced to use a substitute third baseman Lester Bell at first base.

Bell has made six hits in eight times at bat during his two games at first base and may continue in the lineup although Kelly was scheduled to report today.

DETROIT, —UP— When fifteen-year-old Marvin Jackson eloped with Mrs. Ellen Klotschsak, 26, the mother of three children, friends were not surprised. It was the third time they had eloped in three weeks.

ROGERS STARS IN COMEDY FILM

Anything that is going to happen is sure to occur, said some one some time ago, and long waiting on the part of admirers of Will Rogers, who greatly enjoyed his first starring picture for the audible screen "They Had To See Paris" will be out in force today at the Fox-California theater to enjoy an even more entertaining and hilarious picture, "So This Is London" Rogers' second starring picture for Fox Movietone.

Based on the stage play which George M. Cohan successfully produced, and skillfully directed by John G. Blystone, the picture tells the story of a real native of Texas, who is a wealthy cotton mill owner. He has an inborn hatred for some foreigners, mostly because they are not Americans.

For the protection of his business he is compelled to go to England to negotiate the purchase of a cotton mill at Brimshot and much against his will he goes, taking his wife and son with him.

On shipboard the son develops a love affair with a pretty English girl returning from the states with a chaperon, a lady of title. The boy's parents, especially the father resent the alliance and decide to break it up. The chaperon decides to do something a little diplomatic and invites the Texan family to be her guests at a dinner party after their arrival.

Irene Rich plays the wife of Rogers and Frank Albertson, his son. Lumsden Hare and Mary Forbes play the roles of the titled English parents of the girl who is Maureen O'Sullivan.

'UNBORN CHILD' NOW PLAYING AT RICHMOND

It is an open secret that talking pictures are fast depleting the ranks of the so-called "legit" play-players, as witness the flood of Broadway talent which has deserted the Main Stem for Hollywood during the past year. It is seldom, however that a present day talking picture cast can boast of the distinction peculiar to the line-up of troupers who enact the principal roles in "Her Unborn Child," which is thrilling audiences at the Richmond theater this week. Every player in the cast of this smashing dramatic talker can boast of several successes, including little Elizabeth Wragge ,the remarkable "kid" player who rivals her adult companions for stellar honors in this film. Frances Underwood, who is seen as Mrs. Kennedy in "Her Unborn Child" has to her credit performances in "The Unchastened Woman" "Civilian Clothes" and "Home Fires" while Adele Ronson, who portrays Dorothy Kennedy in this talking picture has played in "Skidding" "The Legend of Leonora" and "Great Scott" and little Miss Wragge has been seen on Broadway in "Lilliom" and "Up the Line."

Pauline Drake, the engaging flapper tyne in "Her Unborn Child" has scored in scuh Broadway hits as "Laff that Off" "Flight" "The Desperado" and the stage version of the film which is the attraction at the Richmond theater.

ON VACATION

A two week's vacation in Los Angeles will be enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Frehney of 552 Eighteenth street who left yesterday for the southern city.

Man Held On Robbery Count

Officers, their attention drawn by the shattering of the glass, ran to the scene and caught Gonzales as he was leaving. They said he had a pair of shoes and a dress stuffed inside his clothing.

The man was arrested several weeks ago on a vagrancy charge, but was released without a jail sentence.

LOWE MASTER CROOK IN FILM

On the authority of most screen offerings, a gangster is a gentleman with a low, retreating forehead, a prognathous jaw, and a particularly unpleasant and irritable disposition.

However, there are gangsters and gangsters. Perhaps you never encountered any of the species in silk hats, cutaways, spats and with a gardenia in the buttonhole, but that's only because you haven't as yet seen "Good Intentions," a unique Fox Movietone offering which opens tomorrow at the Fox-California theater.

The author and director of the production, William K. Howard, has elevated his illegal characters from the common or garden variety of beer runners and footpads to the exclusive height where dwell the elite of crookdom, the suave, polished gentry who perpetrate nothing but international robberies and very high class kidnappings of our best people.

And of these, the suavest is none other than that redoubtable hard-boiled gentleman, Edmund Lowe. When Mr. Lowe, from his eyrie of wealth, lays eyes on the delectable Marguerite Churchill, he at once decides to abandon his nefarious pastimes and thenceforth conduct an upright life. But his former pals disagree with him. And the ensuing complications are such as to arouse considerable emotions in the breasts of the audience, what with action, romance and excitement galore and a highly dramatic climax.

Regis Toomey, Hale Hamilton, Earle Foxe, Owens Davis, Jr., J. Carroll Naish, Eddie Gribbon, Robert McWade, Pat Somerset, Henry Kolker and other favorites are in the cast of this entertaining picture. Kolker also handled the staging of the film while George Manker Watters did the dialogue and adaptation. The music and lyrics were written by Cliff Friend and James V. Monaco.

DIRIGIBLE IN SEARCH FOR BLACK

BALTIMORE, Aug. 19.—The naval dirigible Los Angeles was enlisted in the search for Van Lear Black, Baltimore publisher and aviator, it was learned today.

Black was lost off his yacht off the coast of New Jersey last night.

The Los Angeles was on a practice cruise today when it was ordered by the navy department to keep a close watch for Black.

Coast Guard vessels, it was said, have also been asked to keep a look out for the missing man.

Black's disappearance was learned today when J. J. Kelley, captain of the yacht came to New York.

The captain said that Black apparently lost his hold when the yacht lurched. His handkerchief was found on deck.

The vessel was searched, but no trace was found of the missing man.

The publisher was on his way to Chesapeake bay after cruising and visiting New York and vicinity since July 31.

Babies Are Exchanged By Parents

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—UP—Chicago's famous mixed baby case was settled tonight when Mrs. Harold Bamberger and Mrs. William Watkins exchanged infants amid the booming of photographers' flashlights at the Watkins home.

The trade was made, according to Bamberger on the advise of counsel who had recommended that the verdict of a board of scientific experts could be accepted. The experts decided a month ago that the babies had been given to the wrong parents by Englewood hospital. Everyone involved in the controversy appeared satisfied.

Modern Method Lift Them Out CORNS
Callouses Go Too

The safest and real modern way to remove corns, root and all—out to stay is soak them every night for 3 or 4 nights in an invigorating stimulating Radox Footbath.

Then put on modish shoes again, walk and dance with greatest comfort because there's nothing left to ache. No pain, no trouble.

Hadox liberates oxygen which softens hard outer layer of corn, each night penetrating further and further thru the pores, carrying the salts to actual root of corn, so loosening it that it comes right out. Nothing like healthy, free from corn feet to assure happy days! Get a package of Radox at Conn Drug Co., La Moine Drug Co. or any drugstore.

"LADY BIRDS" LAND AT DOUGLAS

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Aug. 19.—UP—Gladys O'Donnell, Long Beach California aviatrix, held a elapsed time lead of 14 minutes and 30 seconds over the five other contestants in the women's national air derby when the last of the covey of racing planes settled down here late today.

By covering the hazardous mountain area between here and Tucson, the noon control point, 37 minutes and 49 seconds, Miss O'Donnell held to her position as pace setter.

She came down at the international airport five minutes ahead of her nearest competitor, landing at 3:09:44 p. m., (M.S.T.).

Miss Doig Second

Margery Doig, of Danbury, Conn., was second and crossed the line at 3:15:11 after flying from Tucson in 41 minutes and 11 seconds.

By trailing Mrs. O'Donnell into Douglas, the plucky Connecticut flier, won over the jinx which bode with her into Tucson to smash up her plane.

The ship crashed as Miss Doig landed at Tucson, damaging the landing gear and propellor. The pilot was unhurt and supervised the hurried repairs which enabled her to take off for Douglas on scheduled time.

Barron Third

Ruth Barron, the Hollywood heiress who furnished the first sensation of the derby by losing her course late Monday, was the third of the contingent of racers to reach Douglas.

She came in a few minutes after Miss Doig and was closely followed by Jean La Rene, of Chicago, Mildred Morgan, of Beverly Hills, and Ruth Stewart, St. Louis.

It was a wan sextette of aviatrixes who assembled about their cluster of travel-stained planes to greet a crowd of 3,000 persons.

Tired Fliers

Tired but jovial, each clinging to the hope that she will be the first and fastest to reach Chicago at the end of the gruelling flight from Long Beach, Calif.

While Mrs. O'Donnell's elapsed time of three hours, 56 minutes and 38 seconds from Long Beach, where the derbyists took off Sunday, gives her a substantial lead, the worst part of the trip is past and her competitors are looking for "the breaks."

Wife Returns Home As Hair Grows Long

FRESNO.—Hiram Leo Leatham likes his wife with long hair.

When Mrs. Hiram Leo Leatham returned home one day from the barber shop with her locks ending at her ears, her husband tossed her from the residence, she alleged in divorce complaint on file here.

However, Mrs. Leatham admitted her tempestuous husband had promised her entrance to the house again once her hair has grown to a suitable length.

This was the charge made today by Mrs. Walburga Oesterreich, on trial for the murder of her husband.

"We had just come in the front door," Mrs. Oesterreich testified, referring to the night of August 22, 1922, when the shooting occurred. "After we got to the living room Fred said: 'Dolly you look pretty good to me tonight.'

"I slipped on a rug and fell to the floor and let out a scream. Then I saw Otto on the stairs. He shouted 'Stop,' then he shot once.

"The next thing I knew Fred was on the stairway landing struggling with Otto and then I heard some more shots. I called out, 'Fred, oh, Fred!'

"I then heard Otto call. He ran down into the living room and pulled me upstairs, pushed me into the closet and locked the door.

PIEDMONT WINS IN BUILDING ROW

OAKLAND, Aug. 19.—The California supreme court today upheld the refusal of R. H. Barrett, Piedmont building inspector, to issue a building permit for erection of a store building in the Cambridge Terrace district.

Litigation on the case occupied almost two years. James H. Wheat laid the foundation of the proposed building. The Piedmont city council then passed a zoning ordinance applying to the project. Wheat secured a writ of mandamus from Superior Judge John J. Allen. A decision of the Alameda county superior court then ordered the Piedmont city council to permit the construction of the proposed building.

The lower court's decision was reversed on June 10 by a decision of the District Court of Appeals. Wheat carried the case to the supreme court in a final attempt to secure the necessary permission, but met with failure.

Promise To Pay Alimony Brings Man's Freedom

MARTINEZ, Aug. 19.—Assertion that he has been unable to find employment and denial of his wife's charge that he had said he "wouldn't pay a cent" saved Joe Siino, 26, Pittsburg painter from a possible jail sentence for contempt of court following his arrest yesterday after issuance of a bench warrent by Superior Judge A. B. McKenzie.

Siino was charged by his divorced wife, Catherine, with being three months in arrears on his payment of a support award for children.

Siino told Judge McKenzie that he had worked but fifteen days in the last three months.

When Siino said he would pay the $60 due his wife as soon as possible the court dismissed a contempt citation that was issued when he failed to appear in response to a summons yesterday.

Why Fat Men Stay Fat

"The trouble with me, and I guess this applies to 99% of the men who are putting on weight, I didn't have the energy or "pep" to keep it off. Lost all interest in any healthy activity and just lazed around accumulating the old pounds until I got that "Kruschen feeling."

Start taking Kruschen Salts—that's the common-sense way to reduce—but don't take them with the idea that they possess reducing qualities in themselves.

This is what they do—they clean out the impurities in your blood by keeping th bowels, kidneys and liver in splendid working shape and fill you with a vigor and tireless energy you'd most forgotten had existed.

As a result instead of planting yourself in an easy chair every free moment and letting flabby fat accumulate you feel an urge for activity that keeps you moving around doing the things you've always wanted to do and needed to do to keep you in good condition.

Then watch the pounds slide off! Kruschen Salts are the up-to-date Fountain of Youth. Take one half teaspoonful in a glass of hot or cold water tomorrow morning and every morning—and if they don't change your whole idea about reducing, go back and get the small price you paid for them. Get an 85c bottle of Kruschen Salts—lasts 4 weeks—at La Moine Drug Co. or any progressive druggist anywhere in the world.

INQUIETUDE

MARGUERITE MOOERS MARSHALL

I have seen the soft dawn breaking
On the levels of the sea,
And watched the sparkling sea-foam
Spray its pearls upon the shore;
The lotus streams of Egypt
Have claimed me for their own,
As have the sleepy valleys of Tanjore.

I thought that having seen then
My heart would be at rest,
But the wanderlust is here again
And I must rise in quest
Of stranger things and stranger lands
Beyond the crimson sun,
Where purple valleys lie a-dream
And dreams and peace are one.

CONSTANCE MONTAGUE.

NOT SO HARD-BOILED

THE modern girl is perfectly frank and honest about wanting her boy:

She takes a job of some sort as a matter of course, and often substitutes its tyranny for the older tyranny of the home.

She is sophisticated, hard-boiled, adventurous—but less so than her elders think.

She is partly a victim of the neglect of adults and of the abolition of an old philosophy of life, with nothing new to take its place.

Above everything else, she has courage.

Here is summarized one of the most recent analyses of today's daughter, one which seems to us as intelligent and accurate as it is certainly interesting. Whatever anybody thinks of a girl of today—and opinions do differ!—she is assuredly a conversational topic of perennial popularity. Both she and her mother—all women, in fact—must be interested in the way she's talked about by Lorine Pruette, the distinguished psychologist whose article on the Flapper in The New Generation, recently published, seems to us quite the best done of anything in the book's six hundred and ninety-four pages.

Probably one reason why Miss Pruette so well understands the younger generation is because she herself is only thirty-four. She is not far enough away from youth to look at it as do so many of its critics through silver-bowed spectacles. On the other hand, she does not wear the rose-colored glasses with which the very young, bless their hearts, are inclined to contemplate that triumph of the ages—themselves!

THE candor of the modern girl's attitude toward boys, combined with her calm at the prospect of taking a job, is what first impresses Miss Pruette, who—like us—remembers when a really advanced young thing scorned "silliness" and "whispered 'careers' in the rapt tones of the god-inspired."

The modern girl, this analyst points out, "has escaped the tyranny of the home and found the tyranny of the job. While she is young and dashing the economic world welcomes her eagerly. Certainly she may come and work for much less than her brothers. But after a few years of meager wages she must grab her man or get ready for the heartbreak ages, for men do not like women with gray hair working for them.

"She thinks the women who stay at home have things pretty soft in comparison with her long hours in the shop or the office. Her problem is much more one of finding a man who can afford to keep her at home. One suspects that this problem is going to grow steadily more acute."

"She is undoubtedly harder and cooler and more forthright than the girls of an earlier day," continues Miss Pruette, "but one suspects that she is not any of these things as much as she seems to be.

"So much has been said about it that youth is under a sort of compulsion to be wild and free and reckless—and all the rest of that blah. . . . Now whole groups appear to fall under the suggestion that they must busy themselves with flaming bright red when all they want is to be a mild and more salubrious pink."

AND whose is the fault? Lorine Pruette blames adult sins of omission—the negligence and neglect of the generation immediately ahead.

"We tend to assume," she says, with profound truth, "that life for the younger generation has become immensely simplified by the lifting of certain old taboos, but it is questionable if living is ever simplified in such a fashion. Having rebelled against the old restraints and the meagerness of our emotional lives, we incline unwisely toward the view that salvation is to be found merely in the absence of restraints.

"The decline in morals leads even more disastrously to a decline in manners. In effect, we often seem to bid the younger generations 'express yourself, my child,' without being competent to tell them how or with whom to express themselves, or what may be more inortant, when not to."

To the specific complaint that the young refuse to be chaperoned, their champion retorts, "It is a real job to persuade anybody to be a chaperone today. Nobody wants to participate in the festivities of younger age-groups; they prefer their own diversions. The rebellion of middle age against the loss of youth killed the chaperone, because nobody wanted to admit that he was far enough out of the game to be one."

COURAGE above all else, the courage of earlier pioneer women, is the dominant characteristic of the girl of today, according to Lorine Pruette, who sums up:

"She is a very small untried knight riding to the jousting . . striving to appear like a hard-boiled little realist and incorrigibly romantic at heart.

"I think she will have a more difficult time than the women of the last thirty years, as she tries to be wife and mother and wage earner. . . But she will not have the time to be the noble martyr with unnamed ills so commonly to be found in the American home today . . . The flapper may grow up, although her mother never did . . . Her eyes may be rather like the steady eyes of those women who rode in covered wagons, with children beside them and shotguns on their knees, or like the eyes of many women in many ages who have accepted the handicaps of their sex, not as the excuse of weakness but as the badge of courage."

Oh, Go to Bed

"DAD, why is the grass wet early in the morning when there isn't any rain?"

"Because the dew makes it wet."

"What's dew?"

"Well, son, there is always more or less moisture or water in the air."

"Does it leak on the grass?"

"Not exactly. In the cool of the early morning the water in the air condenses in small drops upon the upper surface of grass, plants and other bodies which are good radiators but poor conductors of heat."

"Is grass a radiator?"

"Oh, go to bed."

THINK IT OVER

By Alfalfa Smith

IF I think that you are thinking a certain thing, it doesn't make you think it. You may be thinking of something entirely different from what I suppose.

We must be governed by what we KNOW.

Seeing a man stand up straight will cause me to do the same. Seeing a person yawn will make my mouth open, too. However, the desire must be in me before I start to stand up straight, or yawn.

Watch your thinking and, above all, BE REASONABLE.

A DISH A DAY

The importance of liver in the diet must not be overlooked during these summer months when our families must be urged to eat some nourishing foods along with the chilled salads and iced drinks. This important food from a dietetic standpoint may not have the appeal of cold cuts or diminutive chops, so the homemaker's problem is how to prepare it so attractively that it becomes tempting.

KAREN HOLLIS

Don't just saute it or broil it, but make it the center of an elaborate dinner of vegetables and you will find that it will be well liked.

PLANKED LIVER

1 pound calves' liver
4 tablespoons butter
1 cup mushroom tops
2 cups mashed potatoes
4 tomatoes
½ cup pearl onions or twelve small onions boiled
2 stalks broccoli
2 tablespoons butter
Salt and pepper

Melt the butter in a skillet, add the liver and brown lightly on both sides. Transfer to a buttered plank, placing the slices of liver in the center. Arrange the mushroom tops over the meat. At each end place a stalk of broccoli, well-seasoned and sprinkled with melted butter. Cut the tomatoes in halves, season them well and put them around the liver. Next put a border of tiny onions and around the edge put a border of mashed potatoes forced through a pastry tube. Place under the broiler flame for about ten minutes or until the liver is thoroughly cooked and vegetables heated and serve from the plank.

Dots Continue Popular

THERE is to be no surcease from the dotted design. Tiny white dots on dark silks are used for jacket suits of the late summer. Dots vary from the pin size to the saucer dot in chiffon prints for afternoon and particularly late season evening gowns. The cloth frock for fall sometimes has its design of dots executed in embroidery.

Knots or curls in woolens suggest the dot. These often are of artificial silk, then again the curl, pressed flat and silky in appearance, is of pure wool.

Vari-colored flecks of pastel shades or more vivid colors enliven dark woolen grounds, also varied by small conventional woven-in patterns of broken squares, tiles, and diagonal stripes in self color, or a thread-like line of white artificial silk.

A new lightweight boucle or curled surface tweed in navy, dark brown, bottle-green, ruby, wine-red, and in black shows the curl in white artificial silk.

Modeling for Children

ONE mother who knows the best way to keep children good is to keep them busy, devises busy work for much of their leisure time.

One favorite pastime that keeps her kiddies quietly entertained for long periods is clay modeling, and she mixes the clay herself. She takes one cup each of salt and flour and adds one teaspoonful powdered alum, then blends this with sufficient water to mould easily.

After the children tire of this play they wrap the clay in a damp cloth, and this enables them to use the clay over and over again.

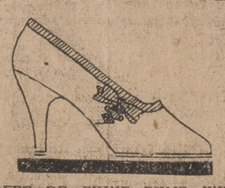
TO take any... shoes is ... than takin... the right shoes.

Shoes are so important in the ensemble—so absolutely necessary an accessory adjunct that to know them will take study. Therefore, I feel we must put our minds to the details, for in this direction of style it is the little things that count most.

First of all, the shoe must fit. Sounds easy. No so simple of accomplishment, however, as all of you must know. Custom made shoes come nearest to the ideal—handmade shoes often closely approach it. Mr. Delman, from his wide experience, tells me that this year the shaping plus the details of finish will mean everything and these are the ways in which the details are done.



CREPE DE CHINE PUMP WITH GROSGRAIN TRIMMING

Street Shoes

WITH tweeds, country suits or semi-town suits, ties are to be done. They have one eyelet, two eyelets or four, as the case may be, and they are tied with narrow grosgrain ribbons in flat bows—not a trace of a flutter or bigness in the bowing. The less eyelets there are the dressier are the shoes.

These ties are made of kid or suede and that process is then reversed, the shoes being done in suede trimmed with kid or patent leather.

I have harped a lot on leather heels and I repeat they are still the smartest for this particular sort of shoe. But, if you should find them too heavy in their classic form you can have leather heels with all the appearance of the real thing that are hollowed out to make them lighter. Calf covered Louis heels are also good for shoes that are not meant strictly for country wear.

Pumps are still almost the best for this purpose—that is if you can wear them—and they are in plain suede, kid or patent leather or trimmed slightly one with the other. The side laced pump sounds funny I know, but it is really very chic, especially when the narrow ribbon lacing is of some color to match the costume and finishes in a small flat bow.

Country Shoes

STRAPPED pumps, one, two and three straps, are shown for the country. They are made of calf with perforated trimmings and have the inevitable heels—as the only sort that really do good service for rough wear, which, after all, is supposed to be done out of town.

If your foot is big—and there are those feet—cling to one strap and talk goes on about alligator, which has lately been used for very smart bags—an indication for smart shoes always. But because so much cheapening of alligator has gone on for the past few seasons, high class makers are stocking only a few of these. They are good style, but the question is—Will smart women wear them?

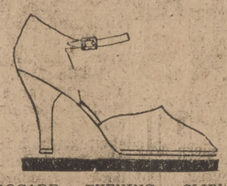
Kid and suede afternoon shoes are acceptable in colors—brown, green and the wine shades. Side trimmings and bindings of color are good, as, for instance, a combination of brown with green worn with a brown frock, green hat and jade jewelry.

Since so much black is being and to be worn, black shoes are perhaps the most important of all; but this does not necessarily mean that they are particularly good with other col-

AFTERNOON SHOE PIPED WITH CONTRASTING COLOR



BROCADE EVENING SLIPPER WITH OPEN SHANK

Evening Foot Notes

WITH the Grecian idea so prominent in evening clothes there comes along the sandal, to be worn with them—a style which is fascinating as it is carried out, and becoming, too. They have the open shank and are trimmed across the vamp with bands of leather or silk, giving the effect of, if not actually being cut out.

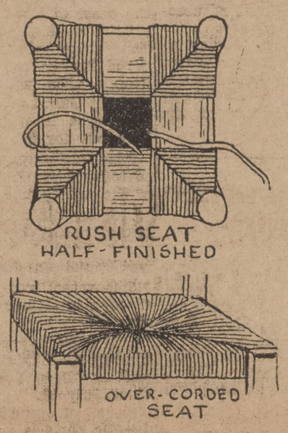
The satin sandal, as well as the satin pump, is expected to be quite popular in the fall and winter. These are made in the lighter shades and trimmed with contrasting colors, as for instance a combination of a white satin dress with ruby sash and ruby jewelry—with satin slippers trimmed with ruby satin bands and binding and a ruby heel.

Then since there are so many evening gowns made of semi-sheer materials, meaning crepe Elizabeth and others of the same sort that have been highly perfected, the crepe de chine slippers, dyed to match of course, or directly to contrast where that note is necessary, carry on with a great deal of style, personality and force. At the present writing, indeed, they are still outselling the satin, though this condition may change as the months pass on into cooler weather.

Weaving the Chair Seat

IN THE nineties, when life was gay, but different from what it is now, scarcely any woman, whatever her status in life, thought of sitting down for an afternoon without her bit of "fancy work" to occupy her fingers. Now she plays bridge, auction or contract, or, if she is quite up to the moment, backgammon, or else goes to a picture.

This summer there's a new fad, a very practical one, quite as practical as that of evolving the hooked rug, and on a par with it. It's reseating chairs. Not upholstering them, as you may infer, or crazy-quilting them, according to another whim of the notorious 'nineties, but reseating them with cord or raffia or rush. It's an art that you may see exemplified in the Colonial furniture section of the Metropolitan Museum, but you'll go to many a chair repairer before you find one capable of doing this sort of work properly. For while it is not a difficult process, it is a painstaking one but distinctly justified by results.



There are slight but important differences in the preparation of rush and raffia. Raffia comes in strands from five to seven feet in length, and four are required to make a "cord." Of the rush there are two kinds: fibre rush which resembles a very tough grade of paper twisted into a strand in either light or dark brown, and flag rush, which comes in wider leaves. The former is generally preferred and the cost is about the same, around 35 cents a pound, two pounds being required for the average seat. There there is Hong Kong grass, a Chinese product resembling twisted rope. It is attractive and durable but does not resemble the genuine rush as the fibre rush does.

Both raffia and rush have to be treated before using, the raffia by being rolled in a damp cloth and the rush soaked, both overnight, or at least eight or ten hours or until they have absorbed all the moisture they will take up.

The chief concern in weaving a seat is to keep the cords of uniform thickness at all times, which is done by adding new strands to the continuous cord whenever needed while at work, an operation of intertwisting ends which has to be done carefully to avoid lumps.

In the beginning the end of the cord is attached to the right-hand chair rail and the strands twisted tight until there are at least twenty inches of cord which can be pulled without curling. Then the cord, which must at all times be held securely so that it does not unwind, is brought up, over and around the right-hand end of the front of the chair frame, pulled tight around the corner post, carried to the rear of the chair frame, around the rear right-hand post, then to the left rear end of the chair frame, around the rear right-hand post, then to the left rear end of the chair frame, around the left rear post and so on, around and around until the seat is done. In the center the cord is carried through underneath, the strands separated and tied, each by itself to any of the cords at the bottom of the reat.

Ordinary tightly-woven clothes-line, sash-cord or similar rope may be substituted for the rush or raffia, and it is easier to work with because there is no interweaving of ends necessary. Whatever material is used, the seat is finished off with one or two coats of varnish or shellac.

When the seat is about three-quarters woven, if it is desired to make it firmer than it would otherwise be, padding may be inserted between the upper and lower layers of rope, for by this method of weaving there will be two layers. This, of course, requires more material than would at first sight appear, so if you are to use cash-cord or clothes-line, be sure you have provided yourself with enough of it.

Another form of seat-covering that it popular just now consists in padding and covering the seat with a colored material, say a felt, flannel, silk, velvet—anything—then, weaving the rope over it, bringing it down to the center and through each time, a hole having been cut in the material for this purpose. In this case the rope may be dipped in a dye-bath first, as it cannot be varnished over the seat covering.

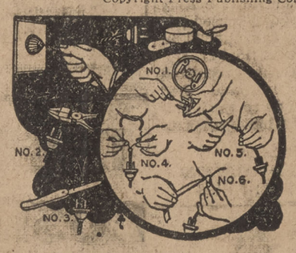
How to Reset an Electric Wire in a Plug

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930



ONE of the don'ts in home electrics is: Don't pull a plug from the outlet with the wire. Yet so universal is the habit that the Patent Office granted a patent last year for a device to place on plugs for the purpose of inducing people to detach a plug with the fingers, and thus prevent the injury to wire insulation pictured in our illustration. Of course a device of this kind is not necessary, for the plug can be removed with the fingers as it is.

If the injury occurs, however, turn the plug over so that its end is exposed, and study the arrangement of everything shown there very carefully, so that you may put the two wires (or groups of filaments representing wires) back in the same position after the repairs have been made.

Then with a small screw driver loosen the two screws shown at No. 1 and pull out the two wires; next, let the plug slip down the wire and cut off the injured part with the clippers, as shown at No. 2; now carefully cut away three inches of insulation, leaving two coated wires, as at No. 3; tie the two strands, as at No. 4; scrape the wires free from insulation with a knife, as at No. 5; and wrap the knotted part with friction tape as well as a little way on each wire, as at No. 6.

The plug is now pulled back into place, with the uninsulated strands ready to be placed around and under the screws in the position they were before the screws were loosened. No part of these two bundles of filaments must be covered with rubber insulation, nor can any of the filaments in one bundle touch any in the other bundle—or there will be no current. If, however, everything is all right, the screws may be tightened, the surplus wire clipped off, and the resetting job is completed.

You and Your Child

Too Much Interference

RALPH, aged three, had been playing with his "big auto."

Tiring of it, he got his blocks and dumped them on the floor beside it. Whenever he went to another part of the room, he carefully walked all round his auto, in order to get back to his blocks. The idea of moving the large toy out of his way never entered his head. His mother, noticing this, smiled, but said never a word. She knew that soon he would make this discovery himself, and she thought it would be better for him to work out the problem unaided. What a wonderful mother she is, I thought. She never interferes with what her child is doing unless it is absolutely necessary. What poise. What self-control.

How different from the average parent and nurse, who constantly prohibit, caution, advise, command, and do things for their charges. These "fussy" guardians often interfere with what the child is doing, seemingly without any reason whatsoever. "Sit down," said a mother to a baby who was securely strapped in his carriage. Why? The child was not doing himself or any one else any harm. "Come here," said a nursemaid to a little tot contentedly looking into a shop window, only a few feet away. Again, why? Will the little ones grow strong physically or mentally or in courage, if we interfere with them every time they want to climb a step, a chair, or later on, a tree? Do we not owe it to them to allow them to do these things, merely standing by, in case of need, until they have fully mastered the technique?

"You can't do it. Let mother do it for you," says many a parent, as she takes the sock, or the wash cloth, or the duster out of the child's hand. Why not let him try? "Put it down," she likewise screams, as the youngster touches a scissors or a knife. Cannot we give the children blunt edged scissors and knives? They will quickly learn to use them.

And so, throughout all the growing years, parents interfere with their children, constantly directing them. One boy I know, when asked to name his chief desire, answered, "One hour a day, to do anything I want." Not such an unreasonable request!

There are many times when it is necessary to interfere with what the children are doing. There are others, when advice is very welcome. But there are millions of occasions when it is best to let the children alone to work their problems out by themselves. A little judicious neglect is very wholesome.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping." Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

sure of work entailed by the great organization she has built," said a statement issued by the directors of Angelus Temple.

Near Carmel

While the controversy between the evangelist's followers and her mother went on Mrs. McPherson was resting not far from the point where she disappeared so spectacularly four years ago.

The convalescent retreat was a small cottage at Malibu, just a few miles from the place where she assertedly was kidnapped by "Rosie and Steve."

The announcement of Mrs. McPherson's affliction came originally from Miss Emma Schaeffer, her faithful secretary, who was present four years ago when the evangelist disappeared while swimming.

"Sister McPherson is blind, at least temporarily," Miss Schaeffer told reporters. "The condition results from a nervous breakdown two weeks ago. Her optic nerves were affected last Saturday and she has not been able to see since".

Suffering Told

The secretary then told of Mrs. McPherson's suffering and concluded with a scathing denunciation of rumors that Mrs. McPherson was recovering not from blindness but from a recent beauty operation.

Miss Schaeffer's announcement was supported immediately by one from Mae Waldron, another of Mrs. McPherson's confidants.

Miss Waldron said the evangelist was critically ill and credited her condition to a series of recent arguments with Mrs. Kennedy, mother of Mrs. McPherson.

Marines Decorated

AVIATION WILL BE TAUGHT AT MARTINEZ

MARTINEZ, Aug. 19.—The shops at the Alhambra Senior High school are being expanded considerably this year. A new shop room is under construction and with the removal of the junior high school students one of the present shop rooms will be available.

Two new courses are being introduced, gas welding and aviation. These new courses will be open to both day and evening classes. Both the gas welding and aviation have been in the school in a general way, but this year marks the beginning of this work on a thorough trade basis.

The gas welding course will be in charge of Robert Henderson, an experienced and capable welder, who has worked as layer-out and boss welder for years in the Pacific Coast and mid-continent oil fields. Henderson was president of the Oakland Welders Union until he resigned recently to take the job with the high school in Martinez.

Kelly Kinball and E. D. Mathewson of the Shell Oil Company, have agreed to serve as a trade committee and aid in the development of the welding course.

The aviation course will be taught by H. W. Andrewsen, who served during the war as flight sergeant at Mather Field and who is at present taking advanced work with the Boeing Air corporation at the Oakland Airport. No flying will be attempted or permitted as the course will consist of practical work on gas engines and airplane construction and repair.

The convention will be held during the second week of August and will bring about 200 delegates from the state to Richmond.

The group was issued invitations to make this city their convention meeting place in 1931 by the Richmond city council and chamber of commerce.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the 1931 convention is composed of Charles Badcock, chairman; Jack Faulkner, W. Fewins, Joe Baker and Fred Fenn.

After the business meeting the Gladstone lodge bowling team played two teams from San Francisco, Burnaby and Pickwick lodges.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the evening.

Boy Tree Sitter Brings Quarrel

SAN JOSE, Aug. 19.—UP—His father today ordered Ray Hallwell, 14, from his perch in the limbs of a tree in his back yard, where Ray has been sitting 700 hours.

Since the mother has legal custody over the boy pending divorce settlement, authorities have declared themselves helpless to enforce the father's orders.

Bodies Of Man, Girl Found In Car

MEDICINE HAT, Alta., Aug. 19.—The bodies of Adam Snyder a married man, and 15-year-old Minnie Sturm, who disappeared last October in Snyder's car, were found today in a car hidden away in a mountain coulee. Suicide by taking poison was indicated in the note found beside the man and girl. The bodies were discovered by a rider. It was formerly thought that Snyder and the girl had eloped.

STATE PATROL MEN KILLED IN CRASH

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 19.— The hazardous character of the California traffic officer's job was evidenced today by a report made public by Eugene W. Biscailuz, superintendent of the California Highway Patrol, showing three officers killed and 69 injured in performance of their duty within the last 18 months.

Two of the fatalities occurred in the Kern county squad, Officers Howard C. Garlinger and L. W. Hogan dying in highway crashes. The third was Officer Leland Bond of San Mateo county.

The sixty-nine counted as injured include only those who were off duty long enough to draw compensation and does not include scores of sprained legs, battered hands, lacerated faces etc., which traffic officers come to regard as a part of the daily grind of watching the roads.

Biscailuz said many of the injuries are of an extremely serious nature, one officer having been off duty for 18 months. Broken legs and arms, incurred in dashes after speed-maddened motorists, are of frequent occurrence.

The average number of men killed annually is three, while the number killed or seriously hurt annually over a period of years has been close to 25 percent of the entire personnel of the patrol, Biscailuz said.

Traffic officers find it difficult to secure life insurance except at exorbitant rates because of the extremely high hazard involved. Thru an arrangement worked out with the state compensation insurance fund, however, injured officers received $25 a week after the first week while off duty and the families of officers killed on duty receive a like amount until the sum of $5000 has been paid.

In addition, the officers have protected themselves to a degree by benefit funds set up by their own organizations.

In the hope of minimizing the death toll in the patrol, orders have been given that motorcycles be discarded for automobiles by men operating on night patrols or in wet weather.

HEARING FOR BILLINGS TO END TODAY

knew the exact time he saw the men because he had just glanced at his watch.

It developed, however, that Crowley had not used those words in the trial, but had only said he was positive of the time. Though agreeing with Claibourne that Crowley's watch was in pawn in his cash register at the time, Jones then nullified that particular testimony by declaring that the Ferry building clock was plainly visible from virtually every spot in the neighborhood.

Relating an interview he had had with James F. Brennan, deputy district attorney who prosecuted Billings, Edgar Gleason, San Francisco newspaperman, said that Brennan told him that Charles Fickert, district attorney, "had threatened to throw him out of a four-story window" because Brennan refused to ask for the death penalty in Billings' case. Gleason quoted Brennan as saying that the Fickert quarrel spurred Brennan into the resolution never to prosecute another case.

Force Gone

This, too, lost a great deal of its force when Gleason amplified it:

"Brennan also told me," Gleason said, "that his determination not to ask for the death penalty was a 'piece of finesse.'

"He said that there were so many discrepancies in the evidence, that it was so weak, that he figured he might lose the case if he asked for the gallows; that a jury would more readily return a guilty verdict if it only meant life imprisonment.

"He also told the jury (he told me) that he thought Billings was just a fool, and that if he were put away there was always the chance he would break down in prison and tell the whole story."

Billings has served 14 years, Thomas J. Mooney 13 years, of life sentences for perpetrating the Preparadness day bombing in San Francisco in July 1916, in which ten persons lost their lives.

Billings' application for pardon must be decided by the supreme court under California law. Mooney's application is before Governor C. C. Young.

U. C. To Start 250 Extension Course Classes

BERKELEY, ug. 19.—The well known phrase of "never too old to learn," is exemplified with the announcement of the University of California Extension Division that more than 250 classes for adults will be inaugurated in San Francisco and the East Bay starting this week.

"Close to 25,000 schedules announcing the opening dates of the courses which will begin in the last two weeks of this month and thru September are now available for distribution," states Boyd Rakestraw, organization administrator of the division. "These may be obtained by communication at the Extension building, 540 Powell street, San Francisco, or 1512 Franklin street, Oakland, or 310 California hall, Berkeley."

The first meeting of all classes will be open to anyone interested. After that an enrollment or visitor's card issued by one of the extension offices will be necessary, it is stated.

The classes are grouped under the general headings of art, Chinese, economics, education, engineering, English, French, German, household art and science, history, hygiene, Italian, journalism, law mathematics, music, public speaking, science, Spanish speech improvement, physical education and political science.

Trial Date Set For Attack Suspect

Bert Meek, state director of public works and Paul Sharrenberg, secretary of the California State Federation of Labor, will be the speakers at the Young rally to be held tonight at the Lincoln school auditorium at 8:15 o'clock.

HYDE NAMED ON DROUGHT BOARD

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—President Hoover today named Secretary Hyde as chairman of the national drought relief committee.

Hyde has already moved to assure the farmers that they will get full benefit of reduced freight rates.

The movement of feed for livestock into drought stricken areas will receive immediate attention.

Other Members

Other members of the national committee will be Chairman Legge of the Federal Farm Loan Commissioner; Roy A. Young, governor of the Federal Reserve Board; John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross; R. H. Alshton, president of the American Railway Association; Ogden Mills, under secretary of the treasury, and Henry M. Robinson, president of the First National Bank of Los Angeles.

President Hoover announced the Hyde appointment, saying approximately 300 counties were now embraced within the drought region. His statement said latest reports continue to show the drought was severe and that rains had improved conditions only in non-acute areas.

"The governors of the various states are moving rapidly in the creation of their organizations, the president's statement said. "The governors of Illinois and Virginia have reported their committees, comprising men of high leadership in their states.

Rains Aid

"The rains of the last few days have stemmed the spread of the drought and greatly improved the situation outside the acutely affected area. In those areas the destruction of crops has proceeded to a point that is beyond any great degree of recovery.

"I have received from all sections of the drought area high appreciation of the railways for their prompt and constructive action. It is a notable act of courageous cooperation and has been undertaken in the face of seriously reduced incomes due to the depression."
